

ABSTRACT

A polysiloxane having a phosphorylcholine group represented by the following general formula

5 (1).

(1)

To develop a method to obtain a polysiloxane having a phosphorylcholine group with ease and 10 great versatility and provide a polysiloxane having a phosphorylcholine group in order to obtain a polysiloxane that has a wide range of application as a biocompatible material and a cosmetic material.